

Animal Science at Cornell

Dairy Management Program

Cornell offers a diverse and immersive education that empowers students to engage in international travel, pursue internships, and build personal and professional networks within the dairy industry. Through career planning, hands-on farm visits, and collaborative farm analysis exercises with extension personnel and agri-service partners, students gain a well-rounded practical understanding of the field. This integration of classroom learning with real-world application ensures that students are prepared to effectively translate principles into practice.

Cornell CALS
College of Agriculture and Life Sciences

Learn More:

cals.cornell.edu/animal-science
dairyfellows@cornell.edu | 607-255-8248